H.J. Baker's Tiger University to sponsor Webinar on The Agronomics & Economics of Fall Applied Sulphur

AgriTalk's Mike Adams to Host Agriculture Webinar for Dealer Sales and Management Teams, Agronomy Consultants, Farmers & University Soil Fertility Staff and Faculty

WESTPORT, CT USA – (July 17, 2012) – H. J. Baker's Tiger University is sponsoring a webinar on The Agronomics & Economics of Fall Applied Sulphur hosted by Mike Adams of AgriTalk, a nationally syndicated talk show, on Tuesday, August 14th at 2:00 pm cst.

Mike Adams will be moderating the discussion with Wes Haun and Drew Taylor, both with H.J. Baker, as they discuss research on the merits of fall applied sulphur. Wes Haun is a Research Agronomist with a Masters of Science in Plant Soil Science from the University of Tennessee. Drew Taylor, Director of Tiger-Sul product management, has over two decades experience in the industry with a degree in Agricultural Economics from Purdue University. They will be discussing how adequate plant sulphur nutrition and its unique interaction with other nutrients can improve crop yields. Advanced application technology and shifts in storage and blending practices are leading the way toward getting the most from the agronomic and economic value of fall applied sulphur.

Topics will include:

Agronomics

- Function of Sulphur in plant nutrition
- Sulphur reaction in soil & availability for plant uptake
- Factors influencing the sulphur cycle
- Fall application of bentonite sulphur enhances pastille breakdown

Economics

- Handling, storage and blending options for 90% PNS
- Application techniques & options for sulphur bentonite
- Variable rate programs with sulphur bentonite
- Economics of adding sulphur bentonite to your fall program

The webinar will be held live August 14th at 2:00 pm cst and will last one hour. The live event will include a question and answer session. Participants can register at www.tigersul.com.
